

OLD SCHOOL VICTOR IN GAME STRUGGLE

Lighter Team From University College of Medicine Puts Up Stout Resistance, but Unable to Withstand Crushing Weight. Large Crowd and Plenty of Music.

The terrific crushing power of weight told its story yesterday, when the University College of Medicine dipped its colors to the heavier eleven of the Medical College of Virginia in the annual gridiron duel between these schools, the older institution carrying off the honors for the second time in two years by the score of 13 to 0 before the largest crowd attending a game this year. Each school was represented by the entire student body, and each brought its own particular band to do its own particular tooting.

For the first time this season the possibilities of the forward pass were shown to good purpose. Both of the touchdowns credited to the Green and White came as the direct result of successful executions of the pass. Schenck scoring the last count by catching Hardy's heave almost on his goal line. Both the old and new school showed splendid development in this line of attack, making the game far and away the most spectacular of any played here this season.

Dope was sent posthaste before the wind, though the form players from the Green and White went on the field a favorite, and justified the faith of their followers, but the stout resistance of the less heavy team from the new school, the smallness of the score and the marvelous comeback ability of the Red and White completely upset all calculations. The old school, conqueror of V. P. I. and winner of many battles, with such men as Schenck, Johns, Walker and Hedgepeth—the last two being probably the best pair of tackles on any eleven in the South—had been expected to run the count well up. The disappointment—if victory ever carries disappointment—was that but two touchdowns were made, while one of these, that scored by Schenck, contained an element of luck.

Plays Best Towards Finish.
A remarkable feature of the game was that during the last period the Green and White went outplayed at every stage. During the first half and throughout the first period of the second half, the old school had kept the Red and White on the defensive. In the last three periods the new school was able to make the necessary ten yards but three times, while in the final quarter, the ball was rushed from one end of the field to the other by the lightweights, six first downs being recorded, or twice as many as were made during the earlier periods. It was about as wonderful a reversal of form as will be witnessed.

There was an evidence of pluck which must have been gratifying to the adherents of the new school, and certainly should have brought praise from the friends of the victors. Every man played his heart out. There was no sidestepping, no drifting away from the line of battle. Each warrior had on his warpaint, and some telling blows were struck. Still, in the final estimate, the better team won. No praise for the vanquished can take any of the glory from the victors. However, since popular choice had made the old school a winner, even before the game was begun, and a big winner at that, the real features in the fact that the weaker eleven made the heavier extend itself to win.

Sore All in First Half.
The two touchdowns credited to the Medical College of Virginia came in the first half, one in each of these periods. Early in the opening quarter, when the Green and White, after kicking off, forced the Red and White to punt from perilously near the goal line, the backs of the heavier eleven aided by the charging forwards, worked the leather to the U. C. M. five-yard line, where Johns was given the honor of carrying it over. The period ended on U. C. M.'s twenty-two-yard line, with the ball belonging to M. C. V. with ten yards to go in three downs.

The second quarter was opened with

Two Valley Elevens Will Get Together Saturday for Real Football Game.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Fork Union, Va., November 14.—The football team of the Fork Union Military Academy will leave here tomorrow for Staunton, where on Saturday they will play Staunton Military Academy. Coach Taylor will take about fifteen men. The line-up of Fork Union Academy will be:
Fork Union Academy has defeated Richmond Academy, Richmond College second team, and lost to Jefferson this season.

Schenck trying for a drop kick. The ball went wide, and U. C. M. came out twenty yards and elected to scrimmage, but unable to gain against the stout Green and White line, kicked, and Schenck ran the punt back twenty-two yards, probably the best bit of broken field running exhibited. A forward pass from a kick formation came very nearly being intercepted, a U. C. M. back touching the leather, but not enough to deflect it from the waiting arms of Schenck, who, with the short distance between himself and the goal line, plunged across for the second and final count of the game. He kicked goal.

The third period was devoid of any real football, both teams apparently playing safe and punting frequently on the second down. Honors were about even in this direction. U. C. M., after having the oval rushed into its twenty-yard line held for a down, showed its class, getting into every play. Neblett applied a well-directed forward pass. Walker also took some glory by blocking an attempted punt. The quarter ended with the ball on U. C. M.'s twenty-yard line, in their possession.

Final Period Real Test.
It was the final period which showed the true mettle of the Red and White. Justice and Futrell covered themselves with glory, while in the line Tyler and Woodhouse were all over the lot, blocking, interfering and leading the way for the backs to circle ends and pick openings. Robinson, at left end, showed his class, getting into every play. Twice the old school was held for downs, while Schenck's toe was called on to shoot the pigskin out of danger. There was a dash and vim about the attack of the Red and White earlier in the fray, might have turned the tide. Fumbles were costly for U. C. M., and with their followers, yelling for a touchdown, opportunities were lost. Still it was a marvelous exhibition, doubly marvelous because shown by a team which was apparently whipped and whipped good and plenty.

Picking up from among twenty-two men who fought as those did yesterday is almost bound to do somebody an injustice. Walker surely did more than his share, while Carter, who played opposite him, was something of a disappointment. On the other hand, Woodhouse was more than a make-for Hedgepeth, which is taking nothing from the ex-Carolina star. Tyler outshone any man in the Red and White line, tearing into every play and making tackles which seemed almost impossible. For that matter, Justice, the corking little right half of the new school, was the most consistent ground game player of either team. Captain Elder and Captain Futrell each deserves credit, as do Johns, Hardy and just make it unanimous.

The game was remarkably clean and free from unnecessary roughness, being played in fast time. Few substitutions were made, and until the final quarter time had not been taken out for injuries of any kind.

M. C. V. successfully executed five forward passes, netting a total of sixty yards, while two went to the credit of U. C. M. for forty yards. The first of these was for twenty-two yards and happened in the second period. Hedgepeth made the pass to Futrell squarely through the middle of the line. Three incomplete passes were made by the old school and two by the new. The Green and White resorted to punting three times, while seven kicks to safety were made by the Red and White. The old school was penalized but once, and that for fifteen yards, while the new school suffered the infliction of three penalties for a total of thirty-five yards.

Line-up follows:

CAUGH HILL GRABS BEST RACE ON CARD

Defeats Big and Fast Field While Talent Goes a-Hunting—Steeplechase Causes Spill of Five J. ekeys.

To-Day's Selections

First race—Latent, Cordie F. Nemesis.
Second race—Rye Straw, Monarch, Patrick S.
Third race—Slim Princess, Monarch Boy, Concurran.
Fourth race—Bashit, Yellow Eyes, Flamma.
Fifth race—Union Jack, Amoret, Takahara.
Sixth race—Donald McDonald, Chester Krum (only two).

Norfolk, Va., November 14.—Caugh Hill won the fifth and best race on today's card at the Jamestown Jockey Club track, defeating a field of some of the best horses in America. The talent went to Grover Hughes and Flying Yankee, but both were easily disposed of by Caugh Hill in the back stretch, when he overtook the lead and was never caught. Action showed some speed in the last quarter and finished a close second.

Result, an odds-on favorite, made a runaway race of the steeplechase, the first of the present meeting. He galloped home a block ahead of Azure Maid. Five horses lost their riders in the race, and Dr. Heard, for running outside and failing to finish in the required time, was denied third money. This is the first race ever run at the Jamestown track in which third money was ever refused.

Amalin, from the stable of R. T. Wilson, won the Atlantic Hotel purse, with Joe Diebold pushing him hard, while Tarts, an odds-on favorite, easily captured the two-year-old event. The crowd today was even larger than yesterday, many new arrivals having arrived from Illinois. Jockey Allen, who rode Norbit in the steeplechase, and Williams, who rode Virginia Creeper, were slightly hurt when their mounts pitched them over the fourth hurdle.

Three horses fell in a heap at this jump and from the grandstand it looked like the jockeys had fallen under their mounts. Three doctors rushed to the scene, but the jockeys were able to walk to the clubhouse with the assistance of stable employees.

Results of races:
First race—two-year-olds; maidens; five and a half furlongs—Fly By Night, 109 (Butwell), 7 to 1, won; Turkey in the Straw, 112 (Mondon), 20 to 1, for place, second; Gardania, 109 (Turner), 2 to 5, to show, third. Time, 1:09 2-5. Rock East, Sweet Times, Falconet, First Tromp, Arran, Fairy Godmother, La Sannella, Hands All Around, Lindasta, R. H. Gray and C. Cane also ran.
Second race—two-year-olds; selling; six furlongs—Tarts, 105 (Hopkins), 2 to 1, won; Continental, 102 (Wolf), 2 to 1, for place, second; Brynary, 109 (Martin), 7 to 10, to show, third. Time, 1:18. Yorkville, Early Light, Battery Ella Grans, Goldy and Honey Bee also ran.
Third race—steeplechase; three-year-olds and up; mile on the grass—Jesuit, 141 (Chartrand), 7 to 5, won; Azure Maid, 129 (Henderson), 12 to 1, for place, second. No third horse. Time, 4:10. Lizzie Flat, Norbit, Gallin, Mame Black and Virginia Creeper lost riders. Dr. Heard ran out and was denied third money.

Fourth race—Atlantic Hotel purse; three-year-olds and up; one mile—Amalin, 105 (Butwell), 4 to 1, won; Joe Diebold, 95 (Martin), 4 to 5, for place, second; Paton, 105 (Turner), 6 to 5, to show, third. Time, 1:40 2-5. Carlton G. Volt, Judge Monck, Republican and Mud Sill also ran.
Fifth race—Handicap; for all ages, six furlongs—Caugh Hill, 111 (Peake), 4 to 1, won; Action, 102 (Marrin), 2 to 1, for place, second; Flying Yankee, 105 (McCahey), 4 to 5, to show, third.

The game in Lynchburg is to be the only one between Washington and Lee and Virginia during the coming season and it is not improbable that alumni of both institutions will be attracted from out of town. There is talk also of operating a special from Lexington, in order that the students may come down in the evening and return home that night after the contest, while it is not improbable that a similar arrangement will be made for the students of the University of Virginia.

No promise is made for a game with the Young Men's Christian Association team by Washington and Lee, and the variety schedule has been about completed for the coming season.

In the Wake of the Game

By GUS MALBERT

Now that it's all over—that little football affair of yesterday—it's betraying no confidence to say that the University College of Medicine was responsible for sportswriters' periods. The old school was strong for the full fifteen-minute quarters, but the newer institution, believed the men not in proper condition to stand the strain, held out for ten minutes. The result was a compromise, with one period of fifteen minutes, two of twelve and a half and the final ten minutes.

Shortening the time doesn't seem to have effected the old school as much as it did the new. It was in the earlier stages of the game that the old school did all of the scoring. In the closing chapters the Red and White seemed to have gained a sort of second wind and sloughed the heavier starters all over the lot. Indulging in a little game of "if perfectly safe, at this distance, it appeared to us that had the game gone a little longer the new school would have had a chance, certainly to score, if not to win, as the team appeared not to have hit its stride until the final quarter.

Of course, no one can tell at this late date what actual effect it did have. The older school had the better team, man for man, but all of the strength of the team was not by any means developed. Men like Schenck and Walker and Hedgepeth, properly used, will make any team a winner. The scoring done yesterday before losing it should have been in view of the paper difference between the two elevens. The first touchdown came after what, in our opinion, was a wrong decision by the referee. Schenck calling an end run, or what looked to us like a circle of the far point, carried the ball a short distance before losing it to his back, who fumbled. U. C. M. regaining the ball. The referee saw it as an attempted forward pass and carried the ball back to the starting point, giving it to the old school. This gave the opportunity for the first touchdown. The second touchdown, which resulted from a forward pass, was easily graded by a Red and White player, but rolled off his fingers straight into the hands of Schenck. One inch more and this pass would have been abortive.

The old school won and won over a worthy antagonist. The season has been successful, and therefore critical bodies might be left unsaid. But there is another year. As we have said of Virginia, so we say of the Medical College of Virginia: The team has never played up to within 10 per cent of its potential strength. Whether it is the fault of coaching or whether the fault of individuals, there was lacking a display of a knowledge of football, or if the knowledge was there it was not put into the play. Had the new school have possessed another end of the speed and ability of Robinson, then, even under the conditions of yesterday, the result might have been different. No coherent attack was developed by the Green and White, it was mere mass which held in the line while a backfield composed of men of singular ability managed to advance the ball in spite of the team.

Out of it all comes the really satisfying result that Richmond is sure to have one really big game each year. These two schools, with the student bodies deadly rivals, but the closest of friends, are sure to come to the front in football. The goodly spirit which prevailed yesterday augurs well for the future. And that is the big thing after all. It is understood that the faculty advisors will endeavor to get together for the purpose of adopting an eligibility code.

White Has Rib Fractured

White, left half back of the University College of Medicine football eleven, was severely though not dangerously injured in the last quarter of the game yesterday with the Medical College of Virginia. One rib was broken, and he was taken to the Virginia Hospital. The patient later returned to his home, and no serious after-effects are anticipated.

HILL CITY Y. M. C. A. QUINT IS READY

Association Champs of Last Season Prepare for Stronuous Winter Campaign.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lynchburg, Va., November 14.—Preparations for the coming season of the Lynchburg Young Men's Christian Association basketball team, the undisputed association champions of Virginia last season, are going on rapidly. Several games have already been arranged, and the correspondence now being carried on with other teams means probably a more inviting schedule than was played in the season of 1911-1912.

A game has been arranged with the Virginia Military Institute, cadets at Lexington on January 4, and Randolph-Macon College will play here February 15, this contest taking place at the gymnasium of the Randolph-Macon Woman's College, where 400 college folks will cheer for the Randolph-Macon colors.

Two games, one here and the other in Asheville, are practically certain with that fast Carolina association team. The one here will probably take place early in January, and the one in Asheville probably on January 18. Games are being sought with the associations in Roanoke, Richmond, Charlottesville and several other towns, while the management of the team will do all in its power to secure games with the best college and university quints in Virginia and North Carolina.

Last year the representative team went through the season without a defeat, having sixteen victories to its credit.

FACULTY AGREES TO ORTH'S TERMS

Formally Approves Contract With Umpire to Coach Washington and Lee Baseball Team.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lynchburg, Va., November 14.—Al Orth has signed a contract to coach the Washington and Lee baseball team again during the coming spring season, approval of the General Athletic Association of the university of the contract having just been returned to Orth. The contract was signed a week or more ago, and it was brought to the attention of the athletic association of the school at a meeting in Lexington Monday night, when it was promptly approved.

Orth is to take charge of the training camp again next year on March 1, remaining with the squad until it becomes necessary for him to report for work as umpire in the National League. This will give him about five weeks with the squad, or three or four weeks less than he spent in the training last spring. Last year Orth's work as coach was highly pleasing to Washington and Lee students, for the team won seventeen games, lost six and tied one. Next spring, however, the team will not include Moran and Thompson, the crack pitcher, both of whom played professional ball last season. The team has already had some preliminary practice early this fall, and appearances are that there is some very promising material among new men in the school.
